

RECRUITMENT OF ADVISORS ON POSTAL REGULATION

We are currently looking for talented individuals to support a Brussels-based project on postal regulatory issues.

Your responsibilities will include:

- closely monitoring and reporting on regulatory developments affecting the postal sector at European Union and national levels; and
- building a close working relationship with regulatory authorities, postal organisations and industry experts.

You:

- have a strong background and experience of working in a regulatory or policy role within the postal sector;
- have strong analytical skills, with the ability to work with strict deadlines;
- have good writing skills - you write clearly and concisely;
- speak clearly and to the point about technical/complex issues;
- have a university degree (preferably in law or economics);
- have good interpersonal skills;
- are fluent in English (both written and spoken);
- have a good working knowledge of German, Italian or Spanish;
- are hard working, professional and have a potential to work independently and to drive projects.

What we offer you in return:

- the opportunity to work at the forefront of regulation as part of a well-respected team;
- an attractive remuneration package and the freedom of flexible working arrangements;
- a rewarding and challenging multi-cultural environment in which to work;
- a real opportunity for personal progress through hard work, training and support.

Please send your letter of application before December 21, 2011 by email to:
regulatoryexpert@cullen-international.com

Please send examples of work you have produced in recent months together with your CV.