

Genc Pollo

Minister for Innovation and Information Communication Technology – Albania

Mr. Genc Pollo was reelected as a member of the Albanian Parliament after the general elections, held in June 2009 which reconfirmed a Democratic Party led coalition and was appointed Minister of State for Reforms in the new Cabinet, in September 2009. From April 2010 Mr. Pollo is appointed Minister for Innovation and Information Communication Technology.

In the previous government Mr. Pollo had the position of Deputy Prime Minister for one year, (2008-2009) and before that the one of Minister of Education and Sciences (2005-2008).

In the current position, he is charge of the Information Society and Telecommunications, Digital Albania being a clear priority the Government.

Mr. Pollo has participated actively in the founding of the Democratic Party 20 years ago the political force that ended Communism and introduced democratic and market economy reforms. He has held various parliamentary and executive senior positions.