sustainability regulatory intelligence europe

Stay well informed on EU environmental policy and its implications for ICT companies and those in other sectors.

Sustainability is one of the key issues of our time. Governments around the world are taking urgent action to limit the impact of climate change, move to greener energy sources, and promote more responsible consumption and production.

Against this backdrop, the EU has launched the European Green Deal: a set of proposals that target net zero emissions in Europe by 2050. The Green Deal includes the Fit for 55 package, which aims to reduce emissions by 55% by 2030, and the Circular Economy Action Plan.

The implications of these policies are complex and far-reaching. For the ICT sector in particular, it presents both challenges and opportunities: companies must improve their own environmental performance but digital services can also help other sectors work in a more environmentally-friendly way.

Our Sustainability service deciphers the complexity of environmental regulation and makes it easy to understand how interrelated EU policies affect you. We provide independent, expert insight on the latest developments on sustainability in Europe, helping organisations uncover the facts and make effective decisions.
